

CSU Ventures - Helping Bright Ideas Become Great Innovations

Steve Albers, Steve Foster, Jessica Joslin, Jeremy Chignell, Esteban Hincapie, Jason Prapas and Scott Fulbright

CSU Ventures, Colorado State University, Fort Collins, CO

Abstract. For over 50 years, CSU Ventures and CSU Research Foundation have been tasked with the management of Colorado State University's intellectual property. Innovations that are generated by the faculty, staff, and employees at CSU can potentially have a large impact on society. CSU Ventures is tasked with the management of intellectual property so that researchers, grad students and faculty can focus on research and education. CSU Ventures main mission is to provide support services and intellectual property management to employees at CSU. Technology transfer augments traditional academic activities (such as publishing and presenting) and can greatly increase the impact of your work by putting it to use. At CSU Ventures, we help you transfer the results of your academic work to activities outside the University. Whether you're still at the idea stage or already have a patentable invention, a useful software program, or anything else of value to someone outside the University, we want to work with you.